

Zoning/Special Permit Requirements

City of Richardson, Texas

Through zoning, a community is divided into districts or zones, each of which has a set of regulations governing land use and the height, size, spacing and layout of buildings, and other essential elements of developments. Zoning is a means of promoting the public health, safety, morals and general welfare and protecting areas or places of historical or cultural significance. The authority to zone is granted to Texas cities by the state, and the process by which zoning is accomplished is spelled out in the Texas statutes. In reviewing a zoning request, the appropriateness of the activity at a given location and the compatibility of adjacent land uses are important considerations.

The following list of submission requirements should be used by the applicant as a guide in preparing a complete zoning change application. The City will also use the checklist to verify the completeness of the application at the time it is submitted. Applications will NOT be accepted until a pre-submittal conference has been held with the appropriate City staff member.

Applicants are responsible for submitting complete applications. Incomplete applications will result in the application being rejected for acceptance and will lengthen the development review process.

Zoning Exhibit (Concept Plan)

A zoning exhibit is a detailed, scaled drawing that indicates existing and proposed site improvements. Prior to the submittal of development plans for projects that require a zoning change or Special Permit, the City Plan Commission and City Council must approve the requested zoning change or Special Permit (if denied by CPC, CC must approve appeal with 6 of 7 members voting for approval). Commission and Council consideration shall include: conformance with the Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance; the Subdivision and Development Ordinance; the Master Transportation Plan; and all other applicable City ordinances and policies; and any other aspect deemed necessary to consider in the interest of providing for the public health, safety, order, convenience, prosperity and general welfare of the community.
