

City honors property owners in Revitalization Awards Program

Four residences, one apartment community, and six community commercial properties in Richardson were recognized in the City's 1999 Revitalization Awards Program. This is the sixth year for the program, which recognizes property owners who have made a positive impact on their property and the surrounding area through enhancement, improvement, or redevelopment efforts. The judging committee was comprised of Council Members Tom Rohm and Bob Nusser, City Plan Commissioners Max Kee and Nancy Wilson, and Scott Jessen of the Morse Co., representing the Richardson Chamber of Commerce. They selected the following winners:
